Poem

Today God Called You Home

Today God called you home Extended his arms & opened Heaven's Door I never knew emptiness Nor have I ever cried like this before I know your one of Heaven's Angels And all I have to do is look above You're in a happier place now No pain, no sadness...just eternal love. You're no longer suffering Your work on Earth is done God called you home A new life in Heaven has begun But here on Earth There's a new star in the sky Shining with your spirit To keep your memory alive You're one of Heaven's Angels now You'll always be with me...

your daughter
